*L. Ron Hubbard
Science of Survival*

"Happiness is important. The ability to arrange life and the environment so that living can be better enjoyed, the ability to tolerate the foibles of one's fellow humans, the ability to see the true factors in a situation and resolve problems of living with accuracy, the ability to accept and execute responsibility, these things are important. Life is not much worth living if it cannot be enjoyed."

Are you flourishing in your life, or are you withering away?

How well do you understand and deal with people around you? Do you understand your family? Do you know which of your friends you can really trust? Can you tell which of your co-workers is honest? Can you predict the behavior of your boss?

- Really understand people and their behavior
- Predict their level of honesty and trust

"The component parts of Freedom, as we first gaze upon it, are then: Affinity, Reality, and Communication, which summate into Understanding. Once Understanding is attained, Freedom is obtained. For the individual who is thoroughly snarled in the mechanics of entrapment, it is necessary to restore to him sufficient communication to permit his ascendance into a higher state of understanding. Once this has been accomplished his entrapment is ended."
